THE HARRISON HAT

IN HOC SIGNO VINCES.

A Word to Republicans.

The hope of the party lies in the expansion of a substantial Republican press. The Republicans who read or otherwise help to support a Democratic paper to the exclusion of one of their own party newspapers is untrue to the Republican cause.

Unanimously subscribed by the National Republican League.

J. S. CLARKSON, President.

A. H. HUMPHREY, Secretary.

EVEN the Kentucky Legislature, as worthless as it is, has passed a resolution calling upon President HARRISON to suspend immigration and commerce from cholera infested districts for sixty days. We are in favor of applying the order to some of the non-infested districts, Italy, Hungary and Poland-Russia for example, and extending the limit to sixty years.

THE Mugwumps and Free-traders, backed by a horde of hungry Democrats, now charge that Commissioner PECK has burned a set of public records, thus rendering it impossible to refute the figures published in his official report. It is said that the missing records are reports from manufacturers throughout the state of New York giving statistics as to wages paid the employees in various industries. Well, suppose these papers have been burned, isn't it easy enough to procure duplicates from the manufacture? What are the stenographers and type-writers for? Gentlemen, your "racket" is too thin.

OF course the report of Labor Commissioner PECK of New York, citing the industries wherein wages have been increased by reason of the McKinley Tariff, is crooked. At least that is what is now charged by the Free-trade papers. As Mr. PECK is a Democrat, appointed to his office by Governor CLEVELAND when he was Governor and subsequently reappointed by Governors

HILL and FLOWER, all Democrats;— these facts alone are sufficient proof that Mr. PECK is "crooked." But his official report will stand all the same, and it will not be affected by the silly cry of the Mugwumps and Free-traders whom his fatal figures do not please.

TELL IT ALL.

THE MAYVILLE PUBLIC LEDGER gives this partial information to its readers:

The American Tin Plate Factory of Bristol, Ind., has been dedicated "as an American industry," and Governor McKinley was the orator of the occasion.

Now let it add the balance of the truth that it is the tin imported from Wales and all the workmen are Welsh—

Kentucky Journal.

Of course, the report of our esteemed contemporary is not true. The pig tin is not imported, neither are the workmen Welsh. But, for the sake of argument, suppose the K. J.'s statement to be true. The finished plate is produced in this country, by workmen who are living among us, and who spend their earnings with the merchants of Elwood. Isn't that better than sending the money abroad to be paid out for wages in Wales and spent among Welsh merchants? How would Newport like to have her rolling-mills shut down, her hundreds of workmen sent to England, and the money now paid to them for wages transferred to the other side of the Atlantic? Don't you think the Newport merchants would feel the loss?

NATURE'S DYE WORKS.

A Crystal Stream Blondest Hair and Rouges Cheeks.

Had Ponce De Leon, in his search for the "fountain of youth," wended his way to Little Sandy, Elliott county, at a point about nine miles from here, and plunged beneath the placid waters of Red spring, he might not have had his days prolonged until now, but most certain it is his color would have been changed to a bright crimson.

On the Freese Hardin farm the Red spring is located, and for years has been used by the old ladies in that vicinity to color their carpet rags, by the young ladies to color their dress goods and ribbons and to blonde their hair.

The water of this spring looks as clear as crystal, and is remarkably cold at this season of the year, much more so than the water of wells in that vicinity.

This water is much used by the approach of Easter Sunday to color eggs and a strange thing about it is the difference in color upon articles of different quality or substance.

Blondines, colors eggs, ribbons and dress goods a crimson red, the flesh of persons a light blood red. The color is permanent in both color and in the approach of the water. The blonde of the hair generally lasts about three weeks, while a person who bathes in its waters is given a coat that lasts about six weeks.

Soap applied to any article dyed by the water but strengthens the intensity of the color. People for miles around come and carry the water away in various articles. A family by the name of Brand, whose numbers are quite large, and whose color has always been a phenomenon, is now explained, it is believed, by their having always used the water for drinking and bathing purposes. So long have they used it, says a dispatch from Greenup, Ky., to the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, that the qualities seem to have permeated their systems, and its effects are seen in their progeny to the fourth generation. They have known of the spring for years, and for a long time kept its qualities a secret, but it was divulged recently by a young man who had married into the family.

MARSHMALLOW ROASTS.

The Latest Diversion to Amuse the Entertainment of the season.

Marshmallow roasts are announced as the latest thing in the way of summer resort diversions, says the Buffalo Commercial. The simplicity of this form of amusement is particularly charming. One buys two or three pounds of marshmallows, invites half a dozen friends, and that is all the preparation required. However, a small amount of kindling wood must be taken along with which to build a small fire in an unfrequented spot on the beach away from crowds unfamiliar with so refined a species of entertainment.

When the fire is blazing merrily, or better still, when it has died down to red embers, each member of the party takes a sharpened stick and sticks upon the end of it a marshmallow. Simmer coolly all these engaged hold their marshmallows nicely on all sides. This requires some skill, because marshmal-lows are highly inflammable and will take fire if not very promptly handled.

The most interesting point about the process is that the marshmallows become so much more palatable when thus roasted than when eaten in their more than their normal state. When done they are morsels for the gods, resembling in flavor the most excellent macarons, with a delicious nutty and crusty outside. They are a sort of sublimated combination of candy and cake.

All in one bite, though the proper fashion is to nibble the roasted marshmallow off the end of the stick. One not consumed, each person pokes the point of his wooden skewer through another marshmallow, and the performance is repeated until everybody's appetite is satisfied. Marshmallow roasts are an excellent medium for flirtation, mutual regard being shown by a young lady and a young gentleman being appropriately exhibited by nibbling the marshmal-lows off each other's sticks. According to the old adage, "The more you ingly the idea is sure to grow in favor.

Foulish Convicts.

No little excitement was created in one of the London metropolitan police courts the other day by the disgraceful behavior of a man who, on being sentenced to three months' imprisonment for swindling, looked at the judges for a moment, and then shouted at the top of his voice: "You are a set of donkeys!" Then and there he was condemned to an additional two years' imprisonment for "grossly insulting the bench." It might have been imagined that the punishment with which his outrageous conduct had been visited would have deterred anyone who might have felt inclined to follow his bad example from doing so, but, strangely enough, the next prisoner who was brought forward acted in precisely the same way. Sentenced to a month's imprisonment as a "rogue and vagabond," he cried out loudly: "You are a lot of donkeys!" and, like his predecessor, will prolong his journey in jail for the space of two years.

Work on the Danube.

The Danube river, which is the means of water communication for Vienna with the Red sea, is not navigable by large ships, owing to shoals and rapid currents; but the Austrian government is endeavoring to remove the obstacles the chief of these being what is known as the Iron Gate, a rocky gorge between two steep banks on the Hungarian boundary. The engineering work now being conducted for this purpose contemplates a channel some six thousand feet long, the sides of the channel to be formed by two walls of masonry; the river bed between these walls to be blasted out, the amount of rock necessary to be thus removed being about three hundred and twenty thousand cubic yards, and in order to secure the necessary depth to the water the lower end of the walls has to be flared out to form a funnel-shaped channel.

LONDON'S LATEST "GLIDE."

The Man Revolves on His Heels, the Woman Flies.
Every year French absurdities crop up, not only in fashionable attire, but in dancing and deportment. I should think the waiting of the present generation would make the shade of der, delightful "Mr. Turveydrop" turn away from the earth with a shuddering sigh, says a writer in the London Free Press. The very latest "London glide" necessitates a pokerlike rigidity of arm and back, that is painful enough to look at, and must be positive to the dancer, whether male and female. To my barbarian eyes the attitude taken by the "performing couple" is this: The man puts his right arm, not his left, in the partner's waist, but high up, almost about her neck in fact, and with the elbows stiffly held as an angle of forty degrees, and on the extreme point of the elbow the lady's left hand is placed, not confidingly and delicately as of yore, but defiantly and heavily, also with the pointing of elbow. The right and left hands of man and woman then grasp each other with a "do or die" expression and are clasped against the dancer's shirt bosom in the region of his collar, and then they revolve slowly, the man on his heels chiefly, and the woman not tipping delicately, but flung and without any motion of her body whatsoever! I wonder would a latter-day Byron describe it as "seductive"? Then suddenly one of the wooden-looking dancers is asked to dance, and every one sits down or stands up in a hollow square, and the man and woman, who have been previously exposing exquisitely shod feet, trips it right merrily to the strains of "Knocked 'Em in the Old Kent Road," the "Barn Dance" and other such enthusiastic collocation keep up a ripple of delighted comments.

SURGICAL SCIENCE OUTDOGE.

An Operation to Remove Clotted Blood From a Woman's Side.

A special to THE Commercial Gazette from Danville recalls the fact that this historic little city has ever been the home of renowned surgeons and the scene of marvelous and intricate surgical operations. It was there that Ephraim McDowell, first performed the operation of ovariectomy, and while performing it there stood on the steps of his office a howling mob, thirsting for blood for the eminent surgeon, should his patient fail to recover from the effects of the knife. In those days the surgeons had recourse from no anesthetic, and the subject suffered excruciatingly.

Of all the noted operations which have been performed there, however, none were more marvellous or more successful than the one which saved the life of Mrs. Henry Lerner, a Russian Jewess, who has resided there for two years. The case is one of the most remarkable in the history of surgery and has no parallel, and will furnish the medical societies an interesting theme for discussion.

The history of it, as detailed by the nurse in charge, is as follows: On Wednesday night Mr. J. Lerner, who was in excellent health until that time, was sitting up rather late reading, when he was seized with violent pain in the abdomen, exclaiming in great agony, "Send for a doctor, quick, I am dying." Dr. Fayette Dunlap was called in and administered one-half grain of morphine, but the pain continued with great suffering of the patient. The following morning the physician made a more critical examination of the patient and found that there was a large lump in the abdomen on the left side. After a thorough examination Dr. Dunlap pronounced the abdominal cavity. Every symptom pointed to such a condition, and an operation was performed at once and the sufferer once more in one thousand for recovery.

Thursday morning Dr. J. W. Guest of Louisville and Drs. Monfort and Kincaid of Danville were called into consultation and agreed with Dr. Dunlap that the original diagnosis. It was decided to perform the operation at once and 2 o'clock on Friday morning the patient was taken to the operating room. After Mrs. Lerner had been rendered unconscious by the use of ether, Dr. Guest administered the ether and Dr. Dunlap made an incision in the abdominal wall. When the peritoneum was opened the large mass of clotted blood was found to be the cause of the trouble. This was hastily cleared and the cavity washed with water. The water was freely and in a few moments fully two quarts of it were taken from the woman. After the second quart of water had been cleared away the coloring matter of a very peculiar incident occurred. The top of the water then floated on end of an enormous tape-worm. To say that the physicians were surprised is to put it very low. The worm had been before in the history of surgery had such a condition confronted an operator.

However, the worm was not equal to the emergency, and securing the end of the tape-worm he followed it up to the top of the water, where he had made its exit from the stomach. This opening was about the size of a small quill, and the worm, which it had been punctured by some blunt instrument, was found to be the cause of the trouble. The worm was taken out of the stomach and then one of its joints broke, leaving the top of the worm in the stomach. The section was made in the stomach and the worm was taken out of the stomach. The patient recovered with water, and the incision closed.

The patient speedily recovered from the ether, rallied from the shock, and in this writing shows every symptom of an entire recovery. The feature of the case is that the worm got through the intestines into the abdominal cavity. One theory advanced is that it ate its way through, another is that something caused an obstruction and the worm gnawed its way through. The worm spread the bowel, finally bursting it. The latter theory seems the more probable, as the worm was found in the stomach, whereas, if there had been any gnawing going on in her vital organs, she would have died long before the worm had been taken out of the stomach. The worm was found by the physician, and seven feet in length.
